

Apollo Probe Blames Mistakes on Ground for Flight Failure

By HOWARD BENEDICT
AP Aerospace Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The detective work has been done; the Apollo 13 moonship explosion has been blamed on human and mechanical error. The space agency now must decide how to prevent any recurrence.

How well it does will determine the course of the Apollo program. Because of the explosion, Apollo 14 already has been delayed two months, until Dec. 3, and it may slide into 1971. Other Apollo flights may be stretched out or eliminated.

A special review board Monday concluded a two-month investigation into the oxygen tank blast that endangered three astronauts 205,000 miles from home and canceled man's third attempt to walk on the moon.

Its highly critical report scored the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, North American Rockwell Corp., and Beech Aircraft Corp., for "a serious oversight" in the design and testing of the oxygen tank.

North American Rockwell is prime contractor for the Apollo command and service modules and Beech built Apollo 13's two service module oxygen tanks.

North American also received much of the blame when another review board reported in 1967 on the launch pad fire that killed the three Apollo 1 astronauts at Cape Kennedy, Fla.

A spokesman for North American said, "We certainly would not disagree with the findings of the board," but declined comment on specific conclusions until company officials had time to study the report.

"If there are deficiencies in the design of our system," the spokesman added, "we'll do everything we can to work with NASA and correct them."

The Apollo 13 review board found the mission "constituted a near disaster, averted only by outstanding performance on the part of the crew and the ground control team which supported them."

The board recommended several design changes for future flights, including the removal of electrical components and combustible materials from inside the oxygen tanks and rigorous testing, checking and qualification of the redesigned systems.

Dr. Thomas O. Paine, NASA administrator, said the agency would study the recommendations and decide within a few weeks what changes to make.

"We will not fly Apollo 14 to the moon until we are confident that we have done everything necessary to eliminate the conditions that caused or contributed to the problem on Apollo 13," Paine said.

Edgar M. Cortright, chairman of the eight-member board which prepared the 914-page report, was asked if he thought the recommendations would permit a December launch of Apollo 14.

"My own view is that it will be a strenuous schedule, but they've been met before," he replied.

The board said the chain of events leading to the April 13 explosion started at the Beech plant in Boulder, Colo., when the oxygen tank was completed and shipped to the North American Rockwell plant in Downey, Calif., with "a loosely fitting fill tube assembly."

At Downey, the platform on which the tank was mounted was dropped accidentally about an inch, and the report said this probably jarred and displaced the loose assembly.

Billy Ford Files for Governor

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Billy Ford, 40, of Batesville announced Monday that he would join the field for the Democratic nomination for governor.

Ford said he planned to file today.

Ford, who said he now lives in Little Rock and is a grade checker for a Little Rock construction company, said he was elected mayor of Sulphur Rock in 1962 and moved to Russellville after serving two years.

Ford said he would seek to lower the state income tax and other taxes if he is elected, but that he would try to raise the tax on liquor by $1 a pint.

"People who use it are going to buy it anyway," he said. "Yes, I drink. You can put that in there."

Ford is divorced.

Nixon Report Is Due on Wednesday

By JAMES PHILLIPS

Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon polished his special economic report to the nation today as reports of rising unemployment, faltering profits and high interest rates continued to mount.

One government report Monday disclosed manufacturer's profits dropped to their lowest level in 2½ years because of the economic squeeze. And a regional Federal Reserve Bank described the downturn as a mild recession.

Nixon closed himself in his hideaway office next door to the White House Monday to work on the report, scheduled to be delivered to the nation at noon Wednesday (EDT).

While Nixon worked in seclusion, the Securities and Exchange Commission and the Federal Trade Commission reported manufacturers' after-tax profits dropped 18 per cent during the first quarter of the year. Profits reached the lowest level in 2½ years, the agencies said in their quarterly report.

The Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis broke with its parent Federal Reserve Board and 11 sister banks by calling the current economic downturn a recession.

The Minneapolis bank said in its monthly statistical report that Minnesota and its neighboring states are "feeling the effects of the mild recession currently in progress in the nation as many business indicators are displaying characteristics of a downturn."

A White House economist, appearing before a congressional hearing, predicted no decline in interest rates or unemployment for the remainder of the year.

Herbert Stein, a member of the Council of Economic Advisors, said the 5 per cent unemployment rate should continue and "rates of interest will decline but a little."

However, he said, "We believe the rate of inflation will be subsiding in this year."

The Minneapolis bank's description of the current economic situation as a mild recession is not likely to spread among other reports by federal agencies since the administration has studiously avoided using the word.

The manufacturers' profits report released Monday, however, added to the gloom of government officials who privately admit economic policies are living up to expectations.

After tax profits during the first quarter of this year were $6.9 billion on sales of $170.4 billion, the lowest profit margin since the third quarter of 1967.

Sales in the first quarter were 5 per cent above the preceding quarter, but profits dropped 14 per cent.

The heaviest impact was felt by manufacturers of durable goods: automobiles, airplanes, metal working machinery and furniture.

Profits of nondurable industries such as food and clothing dropped less than 11 per cent, from $4.2 billion to $3.7 billion.

Improvement District Is Upheld

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The state Supreme Court upheld Monday an act that homeowners in Cherokee Village contended was an unconstitutional delegation of legislative powers.

The property owners contended that the act permitted an individual or group of persons to select boundaries for a proposed improvement district in a way that they would own most of the land in the district and could exercise taxing powers over others.

The law provides that property owners with the majority of land and valuation in the district elect the district commissioners.

The property owners claimed that after they bought lots in Cherokee Village, developed by the John A. Cooper Co., Cooper taxed them through the improvement district to finance development of other land.

Associate Justice Frank Holt, writing for the Supreme Court, said the legislature did not surrender any of its powers in the act. He said the proposed purposes for such a district must be approved by the county or circuit court and the various improvements for which a district may be organized and the powers it may exercise are set out in the law.

By JUDI BAINE

Pine Bluff Commercial
PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP) — A student, a leader, a concerned young American.

This is 17-year-old Stephen David Snyder, the student of the year from the Pine Bluff area.

Snyder was one of the nearly 400 seniors who graduated from Pine Bluff High School on May 28.

Next in his plans is college, at Hendrix College in Conway. Then law school — his ambition is to go to Harvard University's law school in Cambridge, Massachusetts for a law career.

Snyder leaves Pine Bluff High School armed with a background of traits that earned him the title as the outstanding student to graduate from the area's seven high schools this year. He is also armed with ideas about the problems facing the United States today, what caused the problems and what some of the solutions might be.

"I like President Nixon," Snyder said, "I respect his courage in moving into Cambodia — a lot of students do, although they don't like it. We have had many discussions and debates about the move into Cambodia, both inside class and out."

Adults would be surprised at how well informed the young people today are, Snyder said. "We are acutely aware of the problems, and we have the whole range of views represented," he added.

Personally, Snyder said, "I think it was a mistake to make the Vietnam War an American war ... I don't think (President John) Kennedy would have done it ... Nixon showed courage in moving troops into Cambodia and it will possibly hasten the end of the war."

"But if he (Nixon) keeps listening to his military advisers and not the representatives of the people, we may never get out."

He talked at length about the violent forms of protest that young people are now turning to and gave this explanation for that well-known "generation gap."

"The young people — the 'pds' war generation — are finding it increasingly difficult to relate to 'the society of their parents,'" he said. While parents were "powerfully affected by the experiences of the Depression and World War II, it 'means nothing to us ... The America we have known is a land of wealth and opportunity. Failure to communicate with adults has led many young people to 'turn to protest as an in-

Vietnam Position Clarified

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Former Gov. Sidney S. McMath said Monday that he favored a withdrawal of U.S. combat troops from Vietnam.

McMath, a major general in the Marine Corps Reserve, acknowledged that his position was different now than that of several months ago when he suggested that a more vigorous prosecution of the war could achieve American aims in Southeast Asia.

He said the United States may have "given up any options of winding it (the war) up successfully because the expenditures would be too great."

"We have got to get out. We have got to withdraw," he said. "But there was a time when we could have done what needed to be done if our leaders had told the people the truth."

He said he did not share the views of Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., a war critic.

"He wanted to get out years ago," McMath said. "I felt that had we exercised our options earlier we could have concluded the war more satisfactorily."

He said he thought the nation had reached a point that it should withdraw from Vietnam and concentrate on domestic problems.

He said if raids against Communist sanctuaries in Cambodia had been made two or three years ago President Nixon would have had congressional support.

"But the war has dragged on," he said. "The people are disillusioned and the people won't support any other moves."

strument of change," he said. "So many young people who have lost faith in peaceful change have turned to violence," he added. "The big danger is young people listening to militants who say they can only achieve change through violence, but authorities can't overreact to violence."

"The incident at Kent State University swayed some kids and made them hard-core radicals."

What can adults and young people do to stop campus violence?

Communicate, Snyder said. Adults and young people could work to improve communication — or reestablish communications, as the case may be — through working together in programs for young people, Snyder said.

"If you give students something to do ... something to work on, then you would be surprised at the constructive things they can do. People who say this generation is going to the dogs are wrong."

Snyder said he felt that many adults were concerned about the lack of communications between young people and adults and were "willing to work but they don't have the time."

One activity adults should encourage this summer is for young people to participate in the elections, he suggested.

Working in a campaign this summer "is a good way to see changes," he added. "It's better than going into the streets and rioting."

nationwide strike if the House defeats the reform and pay raise legislation.

The legislation would turn the mails over to an independent U.S. Postal Service aimed at putting them on a self-paying basis by 1978 and would boost mailmen's salaries 8 per cent retroactive to April 18.

The major House fights are expected over potential compulsory union membership for postal workers under the new system, and the retroactive pay.

Supporters are confident of passage, although no headcounts have been taken and no hard estimates have been made of how many votes will be influenced by the union membership battle.

Approval of the landmark legislation would end Congress' 181-year control over postal operations and set up the independent postal service agency within the government with corporate-like powers to set its own mail rates, negotiate pay and working conditions with unions and sell bonds,

Take Town But Enemy Is Gone

By JOHN T. WHEELER

Associated Press Writer

KOMPONG SPEU, Cambodia (AP) — South Vietnamese and Cambodian troops and armor smashed into this provincial capital and regional military headquarters today to find the large enemy force they had hoped to trap had vanished.

A Cambodian general said the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong had retreated south and west of Kompong Speu, which is 30 miles southwest of Phnom Penh, but still had a strangle hold on Highway 4, Phnom Penh's only access route to the coast and to Cambodia's lone oil refinery there.

Cambodian Brig. Gen. Sothen Fernandez told a newsmen the elements of five enemy divisions were now in place north, west and south of Phnom Penh, apparently preparing for a push against the capital. Fernandez did not predict when the drive might start.

Refugees reaching Phnom Penh earlier from Kompong Speu said Communist soldiers in the force that occupied the town had boasted of plans to attack Phnom Penh on Thursday. A Cambodian government spokesman termed these reports "rumors," but defenses around the capital were being hastily strengthened. Diplomats in Phnom Penh have been predicting rocket attacks but doubt the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese will try an infantry assault.

Cambodian and Vietnamese commanders gave varying estimates of the number of bodies found in Kompong Speu. The most mentioned figure was 150, but a Vietnamese general said a third of these apparently were Cambodian troops killed when the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese captured the town Saturday. South Vietnamese officials in Saigon said their 4,000-man force which joined in the battle at Cambodian request killed 183 of the enemy and took three prisoners, while suffering four killed and 22 wounded.

War-Spending Compromise Sought

By H. L. SCHWARTZ III

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Administration forces are testing political winds in the Senate, looking for signs of support for a final assault on proposed Cambodian war curbs.

Assistant Republican Leader Robert P. Griffin of Michigan was reported seeking two or three votes to put across an amendment to free President Nixon to finance operations of other nations aiding the shaky Cambodian government.

Limits on U.S. spending for this purpose are a key part of the Cooper-Church proposal barring U.S. forces in Cambodia after July 1 and limiting use of American air power.

At the same time, Sen. Robert G. Byrd, D-W.Va., sought support for a modified version of his amendment that was defeated 52-47 last week in the biggest administration setback since a $300 million foreign military sales bill became the focal point of the Cambodian debate more than a month ago.

Byrd's amendment would have retained all restrictions proposed by Sens. Frank Church, D-Idaho, and John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., except where the President thought it necessary to protect U.S. troops withdrawing from Vietnam.

The key to administration tactics appeared to be the Griffin amendment.

"It goes right to the heart of the Nixon doctrine," said Sen. Robert J. Dole, R-Kan., a leading administration backer.

He referred to the policy Nixon spelled out last year of helping countries that demonstrate willingness to help themselves. Dole said debate on the amendment could take several days. But, he added, the proposal probably won't be offered if there is no chance of winning.

Even if the administration decides to abandon any further effort to water down the Cooper-Church proposal, it appeared unlikely the Senate would finish work on the military sales bill until next week.

Nevertheless, Dole indicated he was reluctant to see the over-all bill pass.

Calendar of Events

TUESDAY, JUNE 16

The Leslie Huddleston Unit 12, American Legion Auxiliary, will meet jointly with the American Legion Post on Tuesday, June 16 at 7:30 p.m. in the Douglas Building to honor the 1970 Girls and Boys Staters. For the potluck supper the Legion members will furnish the meat, bread and beverages; the Auxiliary members will bring a vegetable, salad or dessert. Mrs. Mary Nell Turner, Girls State chairman, will present the program. Special guests will include the parents of the Girls State and Boys State delegates and representatives of their sponsoring organizations, as well as several Department officers. Members of Units 12 and 427 and both Posts are urged to attend and bring a covered dish.

Smith won the door and game prizes.

During the social hour the hostess served a delicious dessert plate with drinks. The next meeting will be in the home of Mrs. Arch Turner on September 10.

FRIDAY BRIDGE CLUB

Mrs. R. T. Wilson, Mrs. Rob Jones and Mrs. F. R. Moses were guests of the Friday Bridge Club that met with Mrs. H. C. Whitworth on June 12, and two of the guests, Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. Jones, were high scorers for the afternoon.

A bouquet of mixed flowers and an arrangement of blue hydrangeas were used as decorations where the two tables of players assembled. The hostess served a dessert course for refreshments.

GIFT TEA FOR MISS HARRIS

Miss Candy Harris, popular bride-elect of Eddie Radcliff, was feted with a gift tea on Friday, June 12 in the home of Mrs. John Britt. Hostesses were Misses Linda Britt, Debbie Holmes, Susan Clark, Janice Russell, Bitsy Morris, Vickie Reeves, LaJuana Davis, and Mrs. Herbert Parmer.

Mrs. E. P. Young, Jr. greeted the guests at the door and introduced them to those in the receiving line, Miss Linda Britt, the honoree and her mother, Mrs. Lynn Harris. For the party Miss Harris wore a blue floral print and had a yellow daisy corsage.

Magnolias decorated the home, and those were the blossoms used on the serving table. At alternating hours Mrs. Olan Reeves and Mrs. J. B. Martin poured the punch and Mrs. J. W. McRoy and Mrs. Roy Taylor served the cake.

Assisting in the dining room were Miss Karen Britt and Miss Judy Foley. Miss Marilyn Harris, sister of the bride-elect, presided at the guestbook. Mrs. George Young, Mrs. Wilson Britt and Mrs. John Britt ably assisted with the part preparations.

Miss Harris received many lovely and useful gifts, which were attractively displayed in a room of the home. The hostesses guided their guests to where they were shown.

TO THE PEOPLE OF HEMPSTEAD COUNTY:

We will present on the screen of the SAENGER THEATRE STARTING Sunday—the motion picture "MIDNITE COWBOY" WINNER OF THE ACADEMY AWARD AS BEST PICTURE OF THE YEAR and other awards.

When we saw this picture—due to its theme—we felt it should not be shown in Hope. We do not think that it should have won the Academy Award.

However, we then asked ourselves—what right do we have to be a self appointed censor—and 'ban' anything we don't like or agree with??? If we all felt his way, and imposed our own opinions—everything would be banned, including all churches—as we are sure some person opposed to every church, or book, or TV, program.

We can, however, express our opinion. "We do not feel that "MIDNITE COWBOY" is a motion picture you should see...we will not admit anyone under 18 unless accompanied by an adult."

That is one advantage we have over TV—we can advise you not to see something—control the admission of those who are too young—However in other mediums—books, TV, newspapers, etc.—the first you know something is UNFIT TO SEE OR READ is AFTER you have seen or read it.

Our policy—we will tell you when we have a movie we feel not suited for general showing—we will not act as your censor—or dictator—the choice is yours, whether you see it or not.

The refreshment committee for the upper grades will be: Mrs. Lyle McMahe, Mrs. Matt McCauley, Mrs. Herman Wilson, Mrs. W.H. Hogan, and Mrs. T.P. Waters.

SS Benefits $278,000 a Month Here

Social security benefits presently being paid to 3,658 residents of Hempstead county total $278,000.00 a month, Otis A. Blackwood, social security district manager, reported today.

The above amount includes the 15 per cent increase signed into law by President Nixon on December 30, 1969.

Of the social security beneficiaries living in Hempstead County, 2,294 are retired workers and their dependents. Another 850 are receiving benefits as the survivors of workers who have died, and 415 are getting benefits as disabled workers or the dependents of disabled workers.

Mr. Blackwood pointed out that although the majority of social security beneficiaries are older people, about one out of every four is under age 60.

Of the 62 who are 18 through 21 years of age, most are getting students' benefits under a provision which permits the continuation of a child's benefits past his or her 18th birthday, and up to age 22 if he or she is attending school full time.

But in this 18 to 22 age group, Mr. Blackwood said, are some other types of beneficiaries, illustrating the broad family protection that is provided working people of all ages under the social security program.

A number are the children of retired, disabled, or deceased workers who became disabled before they reached 18 and who will probably never be able to go to work and become self supporting. The benefits of these young people, severely handicapped by physical or mental disabilities, will continue indefinitely and benefits are also payable to their mothers if the disabled son or daughter is in the mother's care.

definitely not be midi and they will be above the knee. Unless, of course, there is a special script situation."

Carol Burnett—"Lower hemlines, but no midis. I hate them. Hems to the knee or maybe a little longer. Also lots of dress-up pants and floor length glamor gowns."

Marlo Thomas of "That Girl"—"I'll be wearing several hemlines—seven inches from the floor, 15 inches from the floor. I'll wear some minis, too—very high with over-the-knee boots. I think anything goes in a time of change."

HELEN HELP US!

by Helen Bottel

HE NEEDS A LITTLE HELP FROM HIS FRIENDS

Dear Helen:

Ray has been walking me home for a month. He was never interested in girls before, being just 15, so he treated me like a sister. Until Jim and his girl friend started walking with us.

A couple of weeks ago Jim whispered something to Ray and Ray then said to me, "Jim told me to hold your hand, so I guess I'd better."

The other night all four of us were at my house. Jim pulled Ray over and got his ear. You guessed it: I got my first kiss because "Jim told me to kiss you goodbye, so I better had."

I'll admit Ray acts like a boy friend now, but all I ever hear is "Jim told me to..." Yesterday I found out Jim told Ray to ask me to go steady. I'm so mad I'd say "NO" except I like him too well.

How can I get Ray to make his own decisions?—DATING A PUPPET

Dear DAP:
Ray DOES make his own decisions: He chose you, without any urging.

But a shy guy with a first girl needs a lot of help from his friends. Jim advises him on "What'll I do now?" matters in the same way your chums exchange pointers on boy-bait. The big difference is they don't blab to the boys!

Perhaps you can get this across to Ray by kidding him, about his "honesty problem."

Note to Ray: If a girl thinks your kiss was another fellow's idea, she might just decide the other guy is more interesting.—H.

Dear Helen:
I go around with some kids who get their kicks out of knocking their parents. If they aren't telling about the fights at home, they're mad because "My old man grounded me again," or "My old lady yells at me all the time over nothing."

The stories I hear you wouldn't believe and I think maybe they exaggerate just to top the others. The parents I've met don't seem so bad. Anyway, you get a lot of attention and sympathy when you've got mean parents to talk about, and that leaves me out in the cold.

I like my folks. We get along great. But sometimes I feel that if I don't complain about them, the kids will think I'm strange. I just sit there quietly and almost wish I had a problem.

It isn't that I blame my parents for being nice guys, but how do you keep from feeling guilty or "left out" when the tail TOPICLESS

Dear Topicless:
Surely not every teen in your group is anti-parent. It just seems so because the knockers make more racket.

So organize the quieter, "no big problem" kids, and get adept at changing the subject... Or start an argument. It's about time young people discovered they won't be struck by a bolt of lightning if they say good things about adults.—H.

Dear Helen:
I have no problem, but I would like you to know that I'm very happy to know that if I do ever have a problem, I can write to you. Thank you.—Nine and Happy

Dear Nine:
And I would like YOU to know that if I ever get too many problems, I will read your letter pinned to my bulletin board and be happy too!—H.

Pirates and Cards Post Wins

By HERSHEL NISSENSEN

Associated Press Sports Writer

Jim Nelson got the San Francisco Giants in his major league debut and the Los Angeles Dodgers in his first start despite an aching shoulder that's threatening to make him a pain in the neck to National League hitters.

The 22-year-old right-hander, who made the major league scene with the Pittsburgh Pirates only last week, checked the Dodgers on five hits and one earned run in seven innings-plus Monday night and came away a 5-2 victor.

Nelson, who had pitched six scoreless innings in two previous relief stints, was tapped because the Pirates' four regular starters all worked over the weekend.

St. Louis held off San Diego 5-1 in the only other National League game while Houston's scheduled contest at Philadelphia was rained out.

In the American League, the Baltimore Orioles had their lead in the East Division trimmed to 2½ games over the idle New York Yankees when Milwaukee dumped them 9-6. Elsewhere Minnesota clipped Washington 5-3, Cleveland edged California 3-2 in 11 innings, Oakland battered Detroit 12-7 and Kansas City overtook Boston 7-6. The Chicago White Sox also had the night off.

Nelson debuted last week against the Giants by fanning Willie Mays and getting Willie McCovey to hit into a double play. "I threw a couple of pitches before I realized it was Mays," he said.

The 6-foot, 180-pounder developed a sore shoulder in the International League and big league therapy hasn't cleared it up.

"It ached a little from the fourth inning," he said. "I've been to 10 different doctors. Half think it's tendonitis and half are baffled."

So were the Dodgers after getting a look at Nelson's palm ball, which he says he's "not afraid to throw to anybody."

The Pirates built a 4-0 lead in the first two innings off loser Joe Moeller. Willie Stargell belted his 14th homer, a prodigious shot into the center field seats in the seventh.

Matty Alou's double, an infield out and an error on a grounder gave Pittsburgh a 1-0 lead in the first. The Pirates scored three in the second. Fred Patek's sacrifice fly with the bases loaded accounted for one run, Nelson singled for another and the third came in on a single by Richie Hebner.

Roberto Pena's three-run double highlighted a six-run explosion in the eighth inning that lifted Milwaukee from a 3-3 deficit to its victory over Baltimore. It was the Orioles' ninth setback in the last 15 games.

Although the Brewers nipped Mike Cuellar for two runs in the first inning and Mike Hegan hit a solo homer in the sixth, the Orioles seemed to be home free after Merv Rettenmund socked a grand slam homer in the first and Chico Salmon a two-run shot in the sixth.

But Tommy Harper's bunt single, a walk and Ted Savage's single kayoed Cuellar in the eighth and Eddie Watt yielded a pinch single to Tito Francona. Pete Richter brought his 0.90 earned run average out of the bullpen and struck out Russ Snyder but the Brewers pulled a double steal and Ted Kubiak was purposely passed before Pena came through. Gerry McNertney's single drove in the final run.

Harmon Killebrew brought the Twins from behind with a three-run homer in the seventh inning, his 16th, and they opened a 4½-game lead over the Angels in the AL West. Frank Howard homered for the Senators, his 19th.

Jack Heidemann, who doubled and scored in the first inning, singled home the winning run in the 12th following a pair of two-out walks as the Indians shaded the Angels. Heidemann had a double and three singles, giving him 10 hits in 16 at-bats since being inserted in the leadoff spot Saturday.

Eddie Leon's homer gave the Indians a 2-0 lead but the Angels tied it with two runs in the ninth off Sam McDowell before suffering their fifth defeat in six games.

A grand slam homer by Frank Fernandez highlighted a six-run third inning that carried Oakland past Detroit. Fernandez connected off Mickey Lolich, who has a sore back and was pitching in relief for the first time in more than a year.

Rick Monday also homered for the A's while Dick McAuliffe's grand slam was one of three Tiger homers. Willie Horton and Al Kaline hit the others. The Royals rallied three times to beat the Red Sox. Two-run homers by Pat Kelly in the fourth and Ed Kirkpatrick in the fifth wiped out early Boston leads and KC finally won it with three in the ninth.

The runs came across on singles by Lou Piniella and Paul Schaaf, Jackie Hernandez' safe bunt, an error, Kelly's sacrifice fly and a game-winning single by Amos Otis.

Joe Torre's eighth-inning homer proved to be the winning run for the Cardinals against the Padres.

Maravich Finds Pro Game Rough

ATLANTA (AP) — It was a rough first scrimmage for Pistol Pete. Maravich as the Atlanta Hawks opened their 1970 rookie camp here.

Maravich, the National Basketball Association team's $2 million sensation, was slowed by a sprained ankle at the scrimmage Monday.

"I sprained my ankle last week at a basketball camp in North Carolina and I'm having a tough time going hard on it," he said apologetically after the workout.

"What happened was that I came down hard on my shoulders and head and my foot some how twisted and jammed on the floor. Oh, well, I'll be ready by the end of the week."

Maravich, who led all scorers in collegiate basketball the last three years and signed with the Hawks for an estimated $2 million over a five-year period, was the center of attraction as the 17 Hawks rookies went through a two-hour drill on half court.

He was asked about the roughness of the scrimmage.

"The roughness is good-as it should be," Maravich said. "All these guys are trying for position."

"I guess it's sort of like the saga of Wyatt Earp. Everybody wants to beat the fastest gun in the West."

Maravich was known as a "gun" or frequent shooter at Louisiana State where he played his collegiate ball.

But he surprised onlookers Monday with his defensive efforts.

"It's not that I can't play defense," he said. "Defense is all in a man's mind and stomach. And, speaking of guts, one of the greatest displays I ever saw was Richie Guerin several months ago scoring 31 points against Los Angeles. Defense is just a matter of pushing yourself."

Guerin, the Atlanta coach, injected himself into the line-up during the NBA's Western Division playoffs in an effort to spark a sagging attack. He scored 31 points.

Rico Carty High on All-Star List

NEW YORK (AP) — Hot-hitting Rico Carty of the Atlanta Braves has received a swarm of write-in votes to place third among outfield candidates in early balloting for the National League All-Star team.

Carty, whose .404 batting average is tops in the majors, was omitted from the list of All-Star nominees selected by NL managers and player representatives before the start of the season.

But after the first week of voting by baseball fans across the country, he had picked up 71,511 write-in ballots, compared to 170,123 for teammate Hank Aaron, the top vote-getter, and 72,846 for San Francisco's Willie Mays, the No. 2 man in the outfield poll.

Catcher Johnny Bench and third baseman Tony Perez of Cincinnati's West Division leaders trailed Aaron in the over-all voting with 142,629 and 89,337, respectively.

Shortstop Don Kessinger of the Chicago Cubs received 76,298, Willie McCovey of San Francisco was leader among first basemen with 57,452 and Chicago's Glenn Beckert topped the second baseman with 64,233.

The early returns, released Monday, represented some 242,000 votes cast through last Thursday by the fans, who are picking the All-Star starters, exclusive of the pitchers, for the first time since 1957. Players selected the teams from 1958 through last season.

The first American League returns will be released Friday.

Pitchers and reserves for the July 14 classic at Cincinnati will be chosen by the rival managers, Gil Hodges of the New York Mets and Earl Weaver of Baltimore.

The closest NL races in the early voting were at first base, where McCovey held a 2,800 margin over St. Louis' Richie Allen, and in the outfield, where Carty's write-in votes put him about 3,000 ahead of the Reds' Pete Rose for the number three spot.

Except for Carty, write-in candidates were lagging far behind. Jim Hickman of the Cubs, third behind Carty and Perez in the batting race, was not among the top eight vote-getters for the outfield. Los Angeles' Bill Grabarkewitz, San Diego's Clarence Gaston, New York's Art Shamsky and San Francisco's Dick Dietz and Ken Henderson, all among the Top Ten in batting, received few write-ins. All were omitted from the ballot.

Conversely, catchers Tim McCarver of Philadelphia and Randy Hundley of Chicago and third baseman Mike Shannon of St. Louis picked up more than 11,000 votes apiece although each has missed much of the season with injuries. McCarver, out of action since May 2 with a broken hand, was third among the catcher candidates with 20,435 votes.

Brian Piccolo Dies

NEW YORK (AP) — Brian Piccolo, halfback of the Chicago Bears of the National Football League, died early today in Memorial Hospital for Cancer and Allied Diseases. Death was attributed to cancer.

A hospital spokesman said that Piccolo, who was 26, died shortly before 3 a.m., EDT. No further details were immediately disclosed.

Piccolo missed the last five games of 1969 because of surgery for removal of a tumorous growth in the chest.

Before joining the Bears-1969 was his sixth season—he was the nation's top ground gainer and scorer in 1964 while at Wake Forest.

George Halas, Bears owner and chairman, called Piccolo "a complete big leaguer in physical skills and competitive instincts."

"The Bears will miss Brian as a team player who always gave extra effort in practice and in a game," Halas said in a statement following Piccolo's death. Piccolo had been running back Gale Sayers' alternate until a knee injury Nov. 10, 1968, forced Sayers out for the rest of that season.

He wound up that day with 18 rushes for 67 yards, and four receptions for 54. After that, he was a starter for the Bears.

During the final five games of 1968, Piccolo paired with Ron Bull in the Bears backfield and added 76 carries for 269 yards and 15 pass receptions for 155. The 1968 campaign ended as his best in the league; he had an aggregate of 450 yards on 123 tries and caught 28 passes for

Broyles Is Golf Leader of Coaches

BELLA VISTA, Ark. (AP) — Arkansas Coach Frank Broyles shot a sizzling two-under-par 70 Monday to take a three-stroke lead into today's final round of the American Football Coaches Association invitational golf tournament.

Broyles peppered the Bella Vista Country Club course with four birdies en route to the first-round lead of the 36-hole tournament.

Broyles is the 1967 tournament winner. He has been the runnerup three times.

Oklahoma's Chuck Fairbanks turned in a 33 on the front nine, the best of the day, but suffered five bogeys on the back nine and finished the round at 73, second best among the coaches.

Doug Dickey of Florida shot a 75. Defending champion Vince Carliot of Tulsa and Darrell Royal of Texas each had 78s.

Tied with 78s for the lead in the division for sportswriters and broadcasters were Barry Frank of the American Broadcasting Co. and Allan Gilbert of the Fayetteville Northwest Arkansas Times.

Harry King, sports editor of the Little Rock bureau of The Associated Press, shot a 79. Another stroke back were Orville Henry, sports editor of the Arkansas Gazette, and Jack Keady, sports editor of the Arkansas Democrat.

Here are the coaches' scores after Monday's round:

Oregon freshman Steve Prefontaine was Clarke's choice to be the world's next great super-runner.

"He has the confidence, the cockiness and he's prepared to gamble. He's got the courage to go out there and set the pace and dare his competitors to catch him. He could be the next great one."

Clarke confirmed that this season will be his last.

"I'm 33 and I should have hung them up in 1968, after that Mexico City Olympic Games. But that was just such a fiasco—because of the high altitude—that I thought I could postpone the inevitable and maybe try for Munich in 1972."

"I had a reasonably good year last year and I still have that competitive urge when I go to the line. But I find I don't have the same competitive urge in my workouts and I'm just not as fit as I should be."

Clarke will be in the two-mile run Saturday at the Orange County Invitational in Orange, Calif.

Clarke called all his world records "not very good. For example, it's ridiculous for me to hold the world two-mile record. I can't even break four minutes for the mile."

Dempsey, Carpenter Swap Recollections of Boyle's 30 Acres

NEW YORK (AP) — "If I stood up a little longer, I'd have been killed. This fellow was a lion in the ring, a ferocious beast."

Jack Dempsey, coming up on his 75th birthday, grinned as he listened to Georges Carpentier describe the Dempsey of 1921 who had knocked him out in the fourth round of boxing's first million dollar fight.

"He came out and hit me on the chin with a right hand,"

Says College Hurts Great Runners

By DAN BERGER

Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Ron Clarke, the Australian who owns almost all of the world's distance running records, says the United States will never produce a great, world-class distance runner as long as he has to go to college.

"Most of your great runners winds up going to college and when a runner has to go through your college system, he can't specialize," Clarke said Monday.

He said some great track prospects are developed in this country but "in college they are expected to run two and three races each meet. You can't produce a world champion that way."

The Australian ace said that the mile is "a favorite event, the glamor event here, but when was the last time an American won an Olympic 1,500-meter run? About 1912, wasn't it?" It was 1908.

"It's pretty hard to run two races each meet for a whole season," he said. "Sure, it's glory at the time and it's good for the school but it can't help the runner."

He said Gerry Lindgren, former Washington State star and the American record holder at three and six miles, "could have been the great American distance runner of all time if he hadn't been injured so much."

He said Lindgren's injuries were due to too much "doubling" in dual meets. In 1966, 1967 and 1968, Lindgren won both the three and six-mile runs in the NCAA championships.

"There are too many intricacies in long-distance running and you have to know all the tricks to be great — like running at a sustained pace for five laps and then pulling ahead one big spurt to drop off your competition."

Clarke called all his world records "not very good. For example, it's ridiculous for me to hold the world two-mile record. I can't even break four minutes for the mile."

Brazil and Uruguay Seek Soccer Cup

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Two perpetual rivals with the same desire—to retire the Jules Rimet Cup with a third world soccer championship victory—will meet-head-on in a semifinal match at Guadalajara Wednesday.

Brazil and Uruguay have both won the World crown twice and this meeting has a flavor of vengeance for the Brazilian selection, which suffered a disastrous defeat to Uruguay 20 years ago. It happened in 1950 when Brazil had built a huge stadium for the world championship and hoped to win its first title.

Everything favored the host team, not only because it would have a partisan crowd but because of its performance prior to the world contest.

But Uruguay took the field against Brazil in the final game and walked off with a 2-1 victory and ruined Brazil's planned celebration.

Brazil later won the Jules Rimet Cup in 1958 in Sweden and in 1962 in Chile. Uruguay, besides 1950, had won the first Cup games in 1930. Italy also has been the world soccer champ twice in 1934 and 1938.

Wednesday's game will be played at Guadalajara's Jalisco stadium and once again Brazil looks like the favorite.

In another semifinal match, Italy is to meet West Germany at Aztec Stadium here Wednesday after winning the quarter-final matches Sunday. The Germans are the choice of the experts to beat Italy.

Quota on Imports Is Likely Soon

By EDMOND LEBRETON

WASHINGTON (AP) — Legislated quotas on textile and other imports are moving toward House passage—regardless of the position the Nixon administration is now formulating—top congressional sources say.

So far, the administration is on record against such legislation at least so long as there is hope of "voluntary" agreements with Japan and other major exporters. The White House said Monday such negotiations still are under way.

But there was rising speculation on Capitol Hill that President Nixon, who is working on a general economic speech for delivery Wednesday, may say he does not object to the limited quota bill backed by Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., and some 20 other members.

Secretary of Commerce Maurice H. Stans, who outlined the administration's views last month before Mills' Ways and Means Committee, was to return to the stand Thursday with a report on negotiations and their effect on administration policy. His appearance, however, has been postponed until Monday, reportedly at his request.

The Mills bill would set quotas on imported textiles, footwear and apparel. They could be increased in future years, but only in proportion to increases in U.S. consumption of the products involved.

However, a country could avoid the mandatory quotas by negotiating a voluntary limitation of exports into the United States of goods found to be causing damage to U.S. industries.

A source in excellent position to observe said that not only is the committee certain to approve the bill—a majority of its members are cosponsors—but that it will be broadened.

Aid will be provided other import-threatened industries, he said, although this probably will not take the form of quotas. Among the devices that might be used, the source said, are countervailing duties on goods whose export is assisted by rebates of the producing country's taxes.

Backers of the bill, whose cosponsors amount nearly to a majority of the House, say there is no question about its passage, especially if the administration remains at least neutral. And its chances are considered even better in the Senate which, unlike the House, has approved quota legislation in the recent past.

The committee is understood also to be working on toughening provisions for a general trade bill sent to it by the administration and intended to revive limited tariff bargaining authority.

On the final day, the Illinois with 119½ and the Bulova watchmakers of New York third with 102½.

Billy Casper Turns Up at U.S. Open With Variety of Ailments

CHASKA, Minn. (AP) — "Rain," urged Billy Casper, gazing up at the dark and ominous clouds over Hazeltine National golf course.

"The softer the ground the better I'll feel," said the Masters champion. "I might jar the club into some hard ground and be on the next plane for California."

Casper arrived at Hazeltine Monday with an injured hand, a swollen jaw and the feeling that he might be too rusty to stay with the competition at the U.S. Open Championship, which begins Thursday.

Casper injured his hand six weeks ago playing an exhibition match in Japan.

"It hurts mostly when I hit the short irons," he said. "Fortunately, Hazeltine is a course that doesn't require a lot of short iron shots."

But, he said, "I don't know if I can swing through heavy rough. Hard, dry ground would really be a problem."

Spectators asked Casper about the swelling in his left jaw.

"You should have seen me last week," he replied. "I looked like a squirrel with a winter's supply of nuts in his mouth."

"I had an infected wisdom tooth. I had it pulled Thursday, and Sunday I had four stitches taken. I wasn't sure I could play until the doctor said go ahead."

The Open will be Casper's first tournament in six weeks, and he appeared worried about the lack of recent competition.

"It's been one thing after another," he said. "I wanted to play at Memphis, in the Kemper at Charlotte and in the Western Open in Chicago, but I had to cancel out of all three."

"They're not only big money tournaments, but I needed some competitive background for the Open. I'm not happy about coming in here like this."

Casper's toothache and sore hands were preceded a few weeks ago by a mysterious virus which produced a temperature of 102 degrees. The remedy, Casper said, was rest—about 16 hours of sleep a day.

"I've played quite a few rounds around home the last month or so," he said. "But that is hardly comparable to conditions for the Open."

But, he said, smiling, "You have to accept things like that. They're just part of life."

Vaccine Cuts German Measles

NEW YORK (AP) — German measles vaccine appears to be reducing the incidence of the disease in states where the vaccine is widely used, the National Foundation-March of Dimes said today.

Dr. Virginia Appagar, the foundation's vice president for medical affairs, said 9 out of 10 states with "high vaccine coverage" have reported reduced incidence. Eight of ten states with poor coverage, she said, reported increases.

"While the data are not yet conclusive," Dr. Appagar said, "they do offer encouragement that widespread use of the vaccine among children may ultimately eliminate the disease as a threat to unborn babies."

The federal government began a $50-million campaign last summer with the aim of vaccinating 40 million to 60 million children between the ages of 1 and 12.

The vaccination program is directed at children to prevent the transmission of the German measles virus to women. If a woman contracts the disease during early pregnancy it can cause birth defects.

Women are not being directly vaccinated because doctors fear infecting a woman who may be pregnant and not know it.

Thousands of birth defects resulted from the last epidemic of German measles—also called rubella or three-day measles—in 1963-65.

Because German measles run in cycles, there could be another epidemic in 1971-73. The hope behind the vaccination campaign is to minimize its effects.

The campaign began last summer after the government first licensed a German measles vaccine.

The National Foundation found a 37 per cent decline in rubella in the 10 states with the highest percentage of vaccination in children aged 1 to 12. The states with the lowest percentages reported a 54 per cent increase.

The survey was based on the number of cases for the year ending May 24, 1969 compared to the year ending May 23, 1970.

Texas Vs. Social in World Series

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Associated Press Sports Writer
OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — The form chart was never better for the double elimination College World Series, which enters the nifty-gritty fourth round Tuesday with the nation's top four teams remaining in the field.

Only No. 2 Texas, 39-6, is unbeaten after defeating No. 3 Florida State 5-1 Monday night. The Longhorns, with an eight-game winning streak, take on No. 1 Southern California, 49-13, in today's second game of a two-nighter. The opener pits Florida State, 47-8, against No. 4 Ohio U. 33-5.

Should Texas down USC, the Trojans would be out and the Longhorns only one victory away from the championship.

The tourney may end Wednesday but could stretch to Thursday.

Only four times previously has a team gone unbeaten to sweep to the title.

Ohio's Bobcats, who upset USC 4-1 in Friday's first round and then were beaten 7-2 by Texas, are the only newcomers to the world series.

The Trojans are in their 12th appearance and have won five times, the last in 1968.

It's Texas' 14th trip. The Longhorns won in 1949 and 1950, the only team ever to take consecutive championships.

Florida State is back for the fifth time, but its best showing was fourth place in 1962.

Although nicked for 10 hits, Burt Hooten a sophomore right-hander, stifled Florida State 5-1 Monday night with 12 strikeouts. He didn't issue a walk in boosting his record to 12-1 and also singled home a run.

Southern California cashed in on wild pitches and walks to tally four runs in the fifth inning and eliminate Dartmouth 6-1.

Craig Perkins clouted a 390-foot homer for the Trojans and freshman Eric Raich got the victory, scattering nine hits. He fanned 13.

Ohio U. ousted Iowa State 9-6 with Tony Gray's triple and Terry Raszka's double good for four runs in a 11-hit attack.

Hot Springs Has a Name for Odd Street: Call It Peculiar

By STEVE NICHOLS
Hot Springs Sentinel Record
HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — There's a peculiar street in Hot Springs.

That is, if you want to stretch a point or two and call it a street. If you expect it to do ordinary things that ordinary streets do, such as begin somewhere and go somewhere—forget it. In that respect, Peculiar is definitely peculiar.

Tracking down the ways and wherefore of this interesting bit of turf is a task that is at once interesting and likely to cause an Excedrin headache.

But first things first. Where is Peculiar? Well, you go along Greenwood toward the throughfare called Albert Pike. Keep your eye cocked toward the left hand side of the street as you toward Albert Pike, and don't blink. If you do, you're lost.

The first thing you'll see is a street sign. It's in excellent condition, too — newly painted and everything. It says, with somewhat of a defiant air, "Peculiar Street."

Now the trouble begins. One fork, which should extend to the left of Greenwood, isn't and doesn't. It's a lot with some very nice people living on it in a trailer. Yes, they say, this is Peculiar Street, or part of it, only it used to be more so in the 20s.

Mrs. Bill F. Daniel, who was born in the area and has lived there longer than anyone else in the neighborhood, remembers a Peculiar Street back in the 20s that somehow got lost in the march of progress.

Cross Greenwood looking for the other half or fork of "Peculiar" and you'll find more houses, a hedge and an undeclared bit of dirt road that looks like it might have been somebody's driveway when it had some ambition.

Don't panic. Pay a visit to the office of Ray Scheller, City Engineer and Planning Director, and ask "Why is Peculiar Street like that?"

Ignore the looks you'll get. You'll be shown a series of plans that give you the history of Peculiar something like this:

"In and around 1919 it was in an addition called the MacLish addition. It may or may not have been dedicated May 3, 1919. It originally was about 40 feet wide and 90 feet long and at an undetermined point to become Centerview. It wasn't quite the shortest street in town, but it came close."

A check with Mrs. Frank Cline, city-county historian and past president of the Historical Society indicates that Peculiar was a street in 1915 when the city limits extended to what is now Greenwood.

The main difficulty in pinpointing Peculiar is that three court house fires—in 1978, 1909, and 1913 — destroyed a good many records.

A look at a City Directory for 1968 shows the only resident of Peculiar Street to be Mrs. Mattie Ball at 101 Peculiar.

The 1969 City Director lists Peculiar as follows:

"Peculiar Street — From 157 Centerview East then South to Greenwood Avenue. Zip Code 71901. 101 No return."

About the only conclusion you can draw is that there was a street called Peculiar that wandered around somewhere between Summer and Greenwood.

But there isn't and it doesn't. There is a sign, though.

Is No.1 Choice of San Diego

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Catcher Mike Ivie of Decatur, Ga., No. 1 choice of the San Diego Padres in the recent free agent draft, headed the National high school baseball team named Monday by the National Collegiate Baseball Writers Association.

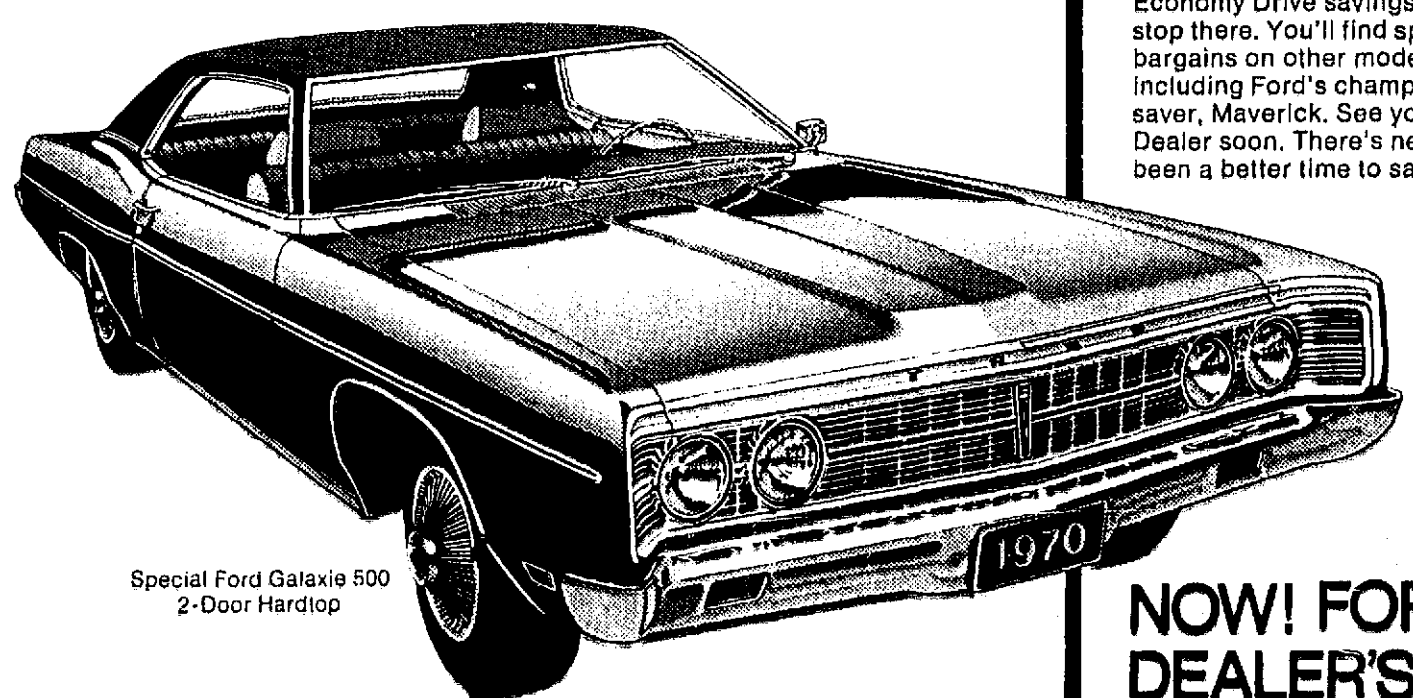

The team, selected by vote of major league farm club directors, included:

First base — Randy Viefhaus, Ellenville, Miss. Second Base — Roy Mullinax, Tulsa, Shortstop — Gary Polczynski, West Allis, Wis. Third base — Paul Dade, Seattle.

More than 90 per cent of the world operates on the metric system. The United States and Britain use a different system.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Right To Attend Funeral

Within hours after her husband died, Grace received a long distance telephone call from his brother.

"Please hold off the funeral until I get there," he said.

But Grace made him no promises. In fact, the funeral was already over by the time the brother arrived. Shocked and angered, he filed a damage suit against Grace, demanding compensation for the mental anguish she had inflicted upon him.

However, the court turned down the brother's claim. Whatever his moral rights may be, said the court, he had no legal right to be present at the burial.

Generally speaking, the final "say" about a funeral belongs to the surviving spouse—or, in the death of a child, to the surviving parents. This includes not only choosing the place of burial, but also fixing the time for the proceedings.

Further, it includes even the method of burial. In one case, a father buried his infant son in a crude wooden box which he had put together himself. Indignant relatives and neighbors had him arrested on a charge of failing to provide a decent burial. However, a court found no basis for the charge.

It may be a different story, however, when someone takes on an affirmative obligation to handle the funeral in a particular manner. This is the kind of obligation an undertaker owes toward his customer. Thus:

An undertaker went ahead with a burial before the family of the deceased had arrived at the cemetery. When the family later haled him into court, he pointed out that they had arrived after the appointed time. Nevertheless, he also conceded that the burial was not supposed to take place except in their presence.

Under these circumstances, the court ordered the undertaker to pay damages. The judge said: "He was guilty of a callous assault upon the sensibilities and feelings of the bereaved."

North apologized as he put down the dummy. "I guess I should have let you play at one no-trump but you play the cards so well, I wanted to give you a chance to use your skill."

"Humph!" grunted South. He didn't see much hope for his contract but nothing could be gained by conversation. Then he reached over and played dummy's jack of spades. Maybe, it would hold. It didn't, so South ducked the next spade lead and won the third one. Then he proceeded to lead a heart to dummy's 10. When this forced the ace the first hurdle had been passed. Now there was some hope provided East didn't have another spade. Back came the nine of hearts. Dummy's king took West's queen, a diamond was led and the queen finessed successfully.

At this point all that was necessary was a little care. If South became careless and played his ace of diamonds East's king would have an entry for his spades but South wasn't going to let this game get away from him. He led a club to dummy's ace, played the second diamond from dummy, let East's king hold the trick and wound up with one spade, two hearts, four diamonds, and two clubs, his contract and a feeling of satisfaction.

"See," gloated North. "Yes," said South. "All I needed was to find East with just three spades, the ace of hearts and the king of diamonds. Also diamonds had to break 3-2 and West had to hold the heart queen."

Rubella Vaccine Is Best Given AFTER Childbirth

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

There has been some confusion about whether the new rubella vaccine should be given to women of child-bearing age. Authorities now agree that it can be given to such women only if there is no likelihood that they will become pregnant within the succeeding three months. Otherwise damage to the fetus may occur. An excellent time to give the vaccine is after childbirth before the mother returns home from the hospital.

Q—What would cause drenching sweats and a feeling of exhaustion about 10 minutes after I eat a meal or drink alcohol?

A—Profuse sweating is often caused by nervous tension and this may be aggravated by eating spicy foods or taking alcohol. This is a reflex action through the nerves that stimulate the sweat glands.

Q—I use antiperspirants and dress shields but still perspiration ruins my clothes. I am very nervous. My doctor suggested drinking less water. Doesn't the body need eight glasses of water a day? Can some of the sweat glands be removed from the skin?

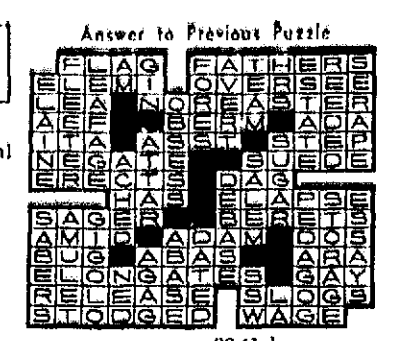

A—Although eight glasses of water a day are recommended it is possible to maintain your health on less, especially since there is some water in most of the food you eat. A better remedy for excessive sweating is to reduce nervous tension. The sweat glands cannot be removed as there are 60 to 370 such glands in every square centimeter of skin—fewest on the legs and back and most on the palms.

Q—What is hyperhidrosis? Can it be cured?

A—This is excessive sweating. It can't be cured but may be controlled by avoiding a hot damp atmosphere, heavy clothing and tension and by the use of local antiperspirants. X-ray treatment of the areas where sweating is heaviest is sometimes used as a last resort but the results are not lasting.

Q—My husband has used powders, sprays and baking soda for sweaty feet and he has soaked them in alcohol and Clorox. He has changed his socks twice a day and changed from nylon to cotton without relief. What do you advise?

A—Try sprinkling powdered alum in his shoes every

Mattie Bazzelle Ends 32 Years as Teacher

MATTIE BAZZELLE

By BEATRICE J. JENKINS

Mrs. Mattie Bazzelle, principal of Oak Grove High School for 32 years, and teacher for five years retired at the end of the school year 1969-70. During one of these years as principal she served as superintendent of the district.

She was a social science major along with administrative qualifications. She kept a record on herself as well as the important events of school career. Her personnel records show that she wasn't ever late for her day's work and missed only 26 days from her work due to illness and other causes during her entire teaching and administrative career.

She with other administrators and teachers helped Oak Grove District's schools grow from a none rated school district to an A rated school district. During this time there were three schools in the district. One high school and two elementary and Junior High combined.

Approximately 1100 students finished high school during her tenure. Of this number six students are known to have their PhD degrees, namely Harding B. Young, Harvard University; Mrs. Viralene Johnson Coleman, University of Arkansas; William Ed. Bazzelle (her son) Wayne State University; Olem McKinney, University of California; Miss Elta Walker, University of Michigan; and Charles Johnson, Harvard University. Many others of this number have masters and have done further studies.

To show appreciation for her loyal and excellent record of service, she was awarded a beautiful plaque from the school board and an admirable loving Cup from the faculty.

The students observed Mattie Bazzelle Day in her honor. During this school day there were no formal classes. The students had parties and games in their class rooms. Their conduct on the campus and in the hallway were carried out according to her wishes and training of students each day. They were orderly and quiet. The class she was sponsoring gave her a surprise luncheon and many gifts. The entire student body had a special assembly in her honor. They gave her a beautiful plant and desk set. Many other gifts were given by students and parents of the entire district.

Boswell and McMath Out of Campaign

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Ted Boswell and former Gov. Sidney S. McMath, mentioned prominently as possible Democratic candidates for governor, took themselves out of the race Monday.

McMath announced at a news conference that rather than run for governor he would concentrate on his role as cochairman of a bipartisan group's efforts to win adoption of the proposed new state constitution in the November general election.

Boswell, who ran third in the 1968 primary, said his decision not to run was one of the most difficult choices he had ever made and that he did not make up his mind until Sunday.

"I know I am disappointing supporters who wanted me to run but I cannot subject my family and friends to the ordeal of another honestly but inadequately financed campaign, particularly in view of the fact that to be elected governor we would probably have to go through four elections," Boswell said.

Nixon Upholds Free Press

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon says while he may not always agree with what he reads in the newspapers he recognizes an unfettered press is a "guardian of freedom."

The President's words of praise came Monday night during informal remarks at a White House reception for members of the International Federation of Newspapers.

Earlier in the day the publishers' group had listened to Vice President Spiro T. Agnew renew his criticism of some segments of the nation's news media.

The vice president, without citing specific examples, said some of the nation's most influential newspapers and television networks had abandoned the practice of "telling both sides of the story ...."

The President in his later talk said it would be an unhappy situation for the United States "if we lived in a country where we did not have that free press."

a Democrat, filed for Position 2 in District 32, which is Saline and Hot Spring counties.

—Carson Golings of Hardy filed for the Senate in District 15, which is Fulton, Randolph, Izard, Sharp and Lawrence counties. He is a Democrat.

—Mrs. Pauline Beckman of Fort Smith, a Republican, filed for Position 3 in House District 12, which is Sebastian and Crawford counties.

—Sam Sparks, a Republican from Little Rock and a Negro, filed for Position 2 in Senate District 18, which is Pulaski and Lonoke counties.

—Van B. Taylor of Waldron, a Democrat, filed for chancellor of the 14th District, which includes Logan, Scott, Yell and Perry counties.

—T. E. Patterson of Little Rock, a Negro, filed as a Republican candidate for House Position 13 in District 22, Pulaski and Perry counties.

—Garland Ridenour of Helena, a Democrat, filed for prosecutor in the 1st District, which is St. Francis, Lee and Phillips counties.

—William D. Vines of Fort Smith filed as a Republican candidate for Position 1 in Senate District 4, which is Sebastian, Logan, Scott and Polk counties.

—Andrea E. McNeil of Conway filed for prosecutor in the 5th District, which is Johnson, Pope, Yell, Conway and Faulkner counties. McNeil is a Democrat.

—James L. Bruce of Arkadelphia, a Republican, filed for Position 2 in House District 35, which is Clark and Nevada counties.

—Danny Brooks of Little Rock filed as a Republican candidate for Position 1 in House District 22, Pulaski and Perry counties.

—John B. Pledge of Little Rock, a Democrat, filed for Position 12 in House District 22, Pulaski and Perry counties.

my state and its people," Boswell said.

"I hope, to, that it will be remembered that I have never desired nor sought political power or betrayed my principles in seeking office," he said.

McMath, who served as governor from 1949 to 1953, said he would "like very much" to run, but that in trying to develop a platform for a possible race discovered that "I kept coming up with things that would be done by the new constitution."

"That would have made the new constitution a partisan issue," he said.

"If we were now operating under the proposed charter, I'd be running for governor," he said.

The former governor said the proposed new constitution was "the most important issue before the people."

"Whoever is governor won't be able to solve the most pressing problems of the state unless this new constitution is accepted by the people," he said.

McMath said that while he would support the Democratic party's nominees, he planned to be nonpartisan because of his activities on behalf of the new constitution. He said several Democratic candidates had the ability and experience to be good governors, but he declined to identify them.

He said the state's problems could not be solved without additional revenue. He said the new constitution would make it easier for some taxes to be approved by the legislature.

He said he feared the proposed new document would not pass if it were voted on today, but he said an educational program he will help direct may win majority support for the constitution.

Stability and Progress In City Government

By Leonard Ellis and George Frazier, Publicity Committee

Fortune has been ours to live in a City like Hope. This is a day of congratulations... a time to pause and give thanks and appreciation to those who deserve it.

This is the first of a series of messages which will be brought to the public on stability and progress in City Government... a tribute to all those dedicated people who have been involved in the City Management form of government, including a paid professional administrator — the City Manager.

We're speaking about the City Board of Directors, the Water and Light Plant Commission, the Planning and Zoning Group, the Citizens Advisory Committee.

They give their time, their talents, their energy, and serve without pay. Seldom applauded, but sometimes criticized, they have that inner joy and satisfaction of serving their fellowman, to make Hope a better place in which to live.

In Hope, the City Manager form of government had its genesis with an election by the people on August 14, 1957. Employment of the first City Manager had its inception two months later, October 15, 1957.

At that time, the City of Hope had an outstanding debt to the tune of $762,600 dating back to the years 1952-54 under prior administrations of the old out-moded Mayor-City Council form of government.

Under the new plan, the record shows, a steady and consistent parade of progress and stability in all departments that has now reached an amazing, fantastic and almost unbelievable achievement.

Let's take only the last ten years — the 1960's for example — and look at the record. During these years, the City Electrical System has been completely rebuilt. Many improvements have been added to the Water System. Improvements to these two systems cost more than TWO MILLIONS OF DOLLARS, all of which has been PAID IN CASH as the work was done.

During this same period — the last ten years — the utility systems have furnished $2,082,000 to other city projects.

These projects include expenditures for streets, parks, schools, library, health center, vocational technical school, machinery for streets, and garbage department, fire department, police department, recreation, and the development of industrial sites to provide for new industry.

This phenomenal record of progress has been accomplished through the blending of representative democracy and professional management... amazing and fantastic when you consider the record without taxation, and two reductions in the electrical rates of Hope.

Political scientists would acclaim Hope's record as one of the outstanding in the United States.

Want to take a step backward, go back to the old Mayor-City Council Plan?

It's a "no-no" for us... but we'll let the people decide that when they go to the polls July 14,

Arrest Quotes?

With all the skill it has shown in infiltrating business, corrupting police, buying off politicians and otherwise turning the American system to its own use, it is surprising that the Mafia has not heretofore grasped the new importance of activism in that system.

But now, it appears, the mob is hip at last: The Manhattan office of the FBI was picketed the other day by a group led by Joseph Colombo, said to be the Mafia boss in Brooklyn, and their grievances were made quite clear. "FBI Hoover, Why Frame Italians?" read one picket sign. Another asked, "Why Are Only Italian-Americans Involved in Organized Crime?"

Mr. Hoover, so far as we know, has not offered to meet with the pickets or discuss differences; hoodlums have a history, after all, of presenting non-negotiable demands. But it is plain enough, we think, what those pickets had in mind. Fairness would seem to dictate a quota system in criminal prosecutions; the Mafia feels that other ethnic groups are not getting their share. It just goes to show how some people can be discriminated against these days without even knowing it. — Roanoke (Va.) Times

4 Attend U.A. Summer Meet

FAYETTEVILLE, — Four students from Hope and one from Washington participated in the University of Arkansas' summer orientation program June 14-16.

The students are: Judith Holly Croom, Ronald Gibson, Bruce Bernier, McRae and Tina Martin, all of Hope and David William Rowe of Washington.

The summer orientation program was inaugurated to give entering freshmen an opportunity to learn about the University and what it offers, before enrollment. Freshmen are also invited to pre-register.

While the students attend orientation, special meetings for parents are conducted, with social hours and tours.

Refunding of Stamp Tax Is Started

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The state Revenue Department will soon begin refunding the $1,784,730 in documentary stamp taxes it had collected, Commissioner Bob Scott said Monday.

The state Supreme Court declared the 1969 documentary stamp tax act unconstitutional Monday. The court said the act violated Amendment 20 of the state Constitution by creating a tax that can be used to pledge the faith and credit of the state to bonds without the consent of the majority of the voters.

The tax had been collected and held in escrow pending a decision by the Supreme Court. Scott estimated that it would take 30 to 60 days to complete the legal work necessary for Chancery Court to enter a decree consistent with the Supreme Court ruling. He said the department would begin refunding the tax collections within 15 days of the completion of the work.

State Sen. Raymond Heern of Jonesboro, who sponsored the tax legislation, said he was disappointed at the court's decision. He had not planned to file for re-election but said after learning of the ruling that he would "think about it for the next couple of hours and if there is some way I can file I will give it some consideration."

Heern also was critical of state Sen. Virgil Fletcher of Benton, an opponent of the tax legislation. "I'm sure now and certainly hope now that Sen. Virgil Fletcher will spend as much time trying to obtain funds for the retarded of Arkansas as he did in trying to get this act repealed," Heern said.

City to Vote June 23 on Bond Issue to Expand the Local Meyer's Baking Plant

Voters of the City of Hope will go to the polls Tuesday, June 23rd to vote on a $250,000.00 Act 9 Bond Issue for the expansion of Meyer's Bakery. This will be the second Act 9 Bond Issue for the expansion of Meyer's within the past few years and on both occasions it has meant more employment for Hope.

According to Jerry Winer, local manager for Meyer's a new line of products will be offered by this firm and if all goes well Meyer's expects to get the new product in production by August 1, 1970 with 45 new employees operating on a two-shift basis. This will increase employment at the plant to more than 200. Present employment is 153 and the capacity for employment at the plant is 280. There are times during the year that employment almost reaches capacity, according to Mr. Winer.

"The 1969-70 payroll at the plant was $955,000.00," said Mr. Winer, "and we expect the 1970-71 figure to reach $1,250,000.00." Mr. Winer also pointed out that sales at the plant since 1964 have increased 257 per cent which shows a very substantial growth for the Company.

This Act 9 Bond Issue requires no tax to support it. It is based on the Company's ability to pay off the bonds over a given period of years. These are also tax-free bonds; however Meyer's, as it has in the past, will pay a sum to the County and City equal to the amount of taxes that it would ordinarily pay should the bonds not be tax free. "We feel that we are part of the community and by being so we should pay our way," said Mr. Winer.

Prosecutor Threatened by Court

By LINDA DEUTSCH, Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — The chief prosecutor in the Sharon Tate murder case faced a contempt of court hearing today on defense charges that he violated a judicial order by giving a published pretrial interview.

The hearing for Deputy Dist. Atty. Aaron H. Stovitz was scheduled before the opening of the murder-conspiracy trial of four hippie-style clan members in the slayings of the actress and six others.

Paul Fitzgerald, attorney for defendant Patricia Krenwinkel, 22, filed the contempt charge. The maximum sentence is a $500 fine and three days in jail.

Opening of the trial was delayed Monday as Fitzgerald—joined by attorneys for Charles Manson, 35, Leslie Van Houten, 20, and Susan Atkins, 21—asked dismissal of all charges because of the "insidious and virulent influence of pretrial publicity."

Superior Court Judge Charles H. Older asked defense and prosecution to file declarations and evidence concerning the motion and said he would consider it until June 25. Jury selection will proceed meanwhile.

The interview in question appeared in The Rolling Stone, a newspaper published in San Francisco and appealing largely to young people. It purports to present the prosecution's evidence against Manson's roving clan. Fitzgerald says it includes details of the bizarre killings not made public before.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Vincent T. Bugliosi, co-prosecutor, said in court that the interview was not so widely disseminated as to affect the trial. The paper claims a circulation of 325,000.

Later, Bugliosi told newsmen the Stovitz interview had been off the record and shouldn't have been published.

In other action Monday, the trial of a fifth defendant, Linda Kasabian, 21, was formally severed from that of the others. The judge postponed until Aug. 17 a hearing on her trial date. But her attorney and the prosecution said she probably would not go to trial.

You Don't Know a Person Until He Starts Reminiscing

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — The poor man's philosopher:

You never really know another human being until he tells you about his childhood.

Aside from the weather, which is usually only mentioned rather than discussed, the thing most people would rather talk about than any other subject is their childhood.

It thaws them out as a south wind does a frozen pond in March, melting the icicles of protective reserve that generally insulate them from their fellows.

Childhood is a form of remembered wealth better than any other riches because it never fades, never loses its value, and can't be stolen from you. It is never more than a thought away.

"The child is father to the man," wrote William Wordsworth. No truer observation was ever made.

Why does everyone treasure his childhood, whether he later measures it by such pompous terms as "good" or "bad"? Because he can remember it as a time when—

An agate marble was worth more than all the fabled rubies and diamonds of India.

He could win a red-haired girl's admiration by showing her how to spin a top.

Playing hide-and-seek was only a game, and there was always a good place for him to hide.

No matter how often he got punished for doing wrong, he knew of something else he was guilty of that his parents hadn't yet found out about.

Adults were pompous, picaresque, preoccupied with trifles, and often unfair, but not deliberately evil.

While it hurt to skin both knees, pain was brief. It was also consoling to think of how

Dog Leash Up to the Voters

JONESBORO, Ark. (AP) — The Jonesboro City Council voted Monday night to put a proposed dog leash ordinance on the November general election ballot.

Leash laws have been a controversy in Jonesboro for more than 10 years. The last time a dog leash law was put before the voters, in 1961, it was defeated.

Leash laws have been before the council many times, but all have been either tabled or rejected.

No Rain Before Thursday

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The U.S. Weather Bureau said that an upper-air high pressure center which extends into the lower Mississippi Valley had pushed all thunderstorm activity well to the north of Arkansas.

The forecast had called for possible showers and thunderstorms to develop in the state Monday night and today, but a revised extended outlook has postponed the possibility of precipitation until Thursday, the bureau said.

A weak frontal zone located over New Mexico was expected to reach Arkansas by the end of the week, increasing the possibility of showers, the bureau said.

Highs Monday ranged from 87 at Harrison to 95 at Little Rock.

Overnight lows included 74 at Fayetteville, 74 at Harrison, 72 at Jonesboro, 70 at Pine Bluff, 72 at Texarkana, 70 at El Dorado, 76 at Memphis, 72 at Little Rock and 72 at Fort Smith.

P.O. Strike Threat If Reform Fails

WASHINGTON (AP)—The battle to reform the nation's postal system and fatten each mailman's wallet is opening in the House today under the threat of another nationwide mail strike.

James H. Rademacher, president of the National Association of Letter Carriers, predicted Monday the House will pass the landmark legislation this week. But he warned:

"If the House rejects the bill there definitely will be a strike next week."

At the same time, Rademacher said there will be "hit and run" walkouts in the states of senators who participate in a threatened filibuster when the legislation goes to the Senate.

"When the senators start talking," he said in an interview, "we start walking."

After a New York local threatened to strike last week, Rademacher notified national letter carrier leaders that he will ask for authority to call a

21 Stop Here on an 1,100-Mile Bicycle Tour

Twenty-one bicyclists calling themselves Ambassadors on Wheels stopped over in Hope Monday night on a 1,100-mile trip from Alexandria, Ind., to Dallas, Texas. They left Benton Monday morning, making their scheduled 100 miles a day. At night they put up on church or mortuary properties, making Oakcrest Mortuary their headquarters while here.

Their purpose is twofold: First, to meet a physical challenge; and second, a spiritual challenge, studying the Bible and holding a devotional service every evening. And

Court Ruling Puzzler for Draft Boards

By STAN BENJAMIN, Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Selective Service System, told by the Supreme Court it can't force a man to fight in violation of his conscience, was left wondering today how to separate sincere objectors from the phonies.

It was also left wondering what impact, if any, Monday's court ruling on conscientious objection would have on the draft.

Selective Service Director Curtis W. Tarr called in his staff for consultation after he heard of the decision and scheduled a news conference today to discuss the impact of the ruling.

On the surface, the decision seemed to make little change in existing guidelines, but Selective Service spokesmen said they had no statistics on the grounds claimed by conscientious objectors and thus no way to measure the effects of subtle policy shifts.

Draft law provides for exemption from military service of men who "by reason of religious training and belief" oppose participation "in war in any form."

In 1965, the Supreme Court—in the landmark United States vs. Seeger case—ruled that an objector need not believe in the traditional concept of God, but only in some overriding principle holding a similar place in his life.

On Monday, the high court reversed the conviction of Elliott A. Welsh II, who had refused military induction on grounds of his belief "that human life is valuable in and of itself . . . I will not injure or kill another human being."

Citing a lower court finding that Welsh held his beliefs "with the strength of more traditional religious convictions," the court decided he was entitled to conscientious objector status according to the Seeger principle.

The court's Monday decision concluded the law permits exemption of those "whose consciences, spurred by deeply held moral, ethical, or religious beliefs, would give them no rest or peace if they allowed themselves to become a part of an instrument of war."

The court decision appeared to give those seeking conscientious objector status more leeway to defend their claims, for it accepted Welsh's arguments based on "political, sociological or philosophical views."

Lists Close; 13 Run for Governor

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The filing deadline passed in the Capitol Rotunda at noon today with 13 candidates seeking the office of governor.

Eight are Democrats, four are Republicans and one is an American Party in Arkansas candidate.

The Rev. R. J. Hampton, a Negro, of North Little Rock, was the surprise announcer.

Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller, Lester Gibbs and James MacKrell will compete with Hampton in the GOP primary Aug. 25.

With announced candidate Charles Brown of Little Rock dropping out, the field for the Democratic gubernatorial primary was reduced to these: former Gov. Orval E. Faubus, Atty. Gen. Joe Purcell, House Speaker Hayes McClerkin, attorneys Bob Compton and Dale Bumpers, businessmen Bill Wells, James Malone Jr. and W. S. Cheek.

Walter Carruth of Lexa, nominated in convention, was the only gubernatorial candidate to file on the American party ticket.

In the closing minutes, the field for lieutenant governor was increased to eight. For the American party is Hubert L. Blanton; for the Republican party, Sterling Cockrill Jr. and Gerald Williams; and Democrats are Paul Mah, Bob Riley, Odis Wilson, Bill Nelson and Kenneth Coffelt.

One of Arkansas' four congressmen came up with opposition. Donald Poe of Waldron, a Democrat, filed to oppose Rep. John P. Hammerschmidt, R-Ark., in the 3rd Congressional District.

Rep. Bill Alexander, D-Ark., of the 1st District was to have been opposed by James Dauer of East St. Louis, Ill., the American party nominee, but Dauer did not file.

Reps. Wilbur Mills and David Pryor, both D-Ark., did not draw opposition.

John F. Thompson of Morrilton filed for the GOP nomination for secretary of state.

Other filings: —Jim Vardaman of Ozark, Republican, Senate District 3, Madison, Crawford, Johnson and Franklin counties.

—Charles Hazard Jr. of Benton, Republican, Position 2, House District 33, Grant and Jefferson counties.

—A. J. Troxell of Greenbrier, Democrat, Position 1, House District 14, Van Buren, Cleburne
